

SHADOW IN YOUR EYES

Words by Nancy Bryan

Vocal Solo by Nancy Bryan

Some memories are never fading
They linger like a vivid dream
The night you stole into my bedroom
You did so many things
The moon was shining in through the window
Right through your disguise

How could you touch me like that
I was your daughter
Or was I just a shadow in your eyes
Was I just a shadow in your eyes

I used to think you could walk on water
You were everything to me
I was a lamb led to your slaughter
My body broken and bleeding
Now I can't love anybody
No matter how hard I try

The children inherit the sins of the father
I am a shadow in your eyes
I'm a shadow in your eyes

And when the morning dawns
I wander through these halls
Hate myself a little more
Pray the night won't fall

Oh the lessons we learn in childhood
Don't believe anything they say
If you can't trust your own father
How can you believe in anything?

I wonder, do you think of me often
I wonder do you hear me cry
I need to forgive you
But it might take forever
I am a shadow in your eyes
